

DJO Incorporated Signs Sponsorship Agreement With Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society

SAN DIEGO, CA November 10, 2008 - DJO Incorporated, a leading global developer, manufacturer and distributor of high-quality medical devices that provide solutions for musculoskeletal health, vascular health and pain management, today announced a sponsorship agreement with the Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society (PFATS). PFATS is a national organization comprised of over 100 athletic trainers who provide and manage healthcare for the players and personnel in the National Football League (NFL).

Under the sponsorship agreement, PFATS will recommend and endorse specific DonJoy products to their membership, which includes all 32 team franchises in the NFL. Products under PFATS contract include functional knee braces from DJO's flagship Defiance and Armor lines, as well as the Velocity ankle brace and the CE Custom Elbow brace. The formalized agreement with PFATS will allow DJO to further penetrate the professional athletes market by strengthening key relationships with team physicians and athletic trainers throughout the NFL. PFATS will have access to key educational seminars and valuable clinical research taking place at DJO, as well as building relationships with other DJO companies such as Empi Recovery Sciences and Chattanooga Group that provide pain management and physical therapy products, respectively.

"DonJoy's history is rooted in professional football and the Company continues to maintain a close working relationship with the athletic training community at all levels of sports. This sponsorship with PFATS represents the next level in our relationship with the NFL and we are pleased to be the provider of knee, ankle and elbow products for the athletic trainers who work at this elite level of sport," remarked Les Cross, CEO of DJO. "We look forward to working with PFATS as an organization to further develop various bracing opportunities, such as DonJoy's Join the Club preventative bracing program, which provides young athletes with access to top of the line bracing products at an early age. Preventative bracing helps keep athletes healthy and in the game, and through our agreement with PFATS we have the opportunity to drive the awareness of bracing's benefits to greater depths in US athletic programs."

"We are enthusiastic about building a long term relationship with DonJoy and DJO", added John Norwig, President of PFATS. "DJO as a company provides outstanding orthopedic appliances for both professional athletes and weekend warriors. DonJoy products have been part of our athletic training room for over ten seasons, their top of the line knee, ankle and elbow products will further enhance our ability to successfully treat and rehabilitate our athletes. In addition, we embrace DJO's history of collaborating with health care practitioners to continually improve existing products in their line, and provide innovative solutions to managing and preventing injuries athletes face today."
